“ I remember a time when Kevin sold the seat out of his brown 70 something Ford truck to go out on a date that night. He flipped over 5 gallon buckets and sat them in the cab for them to sit on. I would say he was pretty creative and could get things done, one way or another.

I have many memories with Kevin growing up. He was always willing to hang out and play cowboys and Indians. He was the bicycle chopper king. He could modify a bike to jump ramps like no other. Memory that sticks the most is the day we were playing with a fire, and somehow the milk carton he had on the stick ended up on my leg. Memories I will cherish always. RIP cuz
