“ My Nana was the glue of our family. She had no problem keeping us "boys" in check. I knew Nana meant business when she would say "boy listen to me". She helped raise me into the man I am today. I am forever grateful for this wonderful woman that I call my Nana. She was so loving, caring, and strong. I know she will always be looking down on me, and I find great comfort in that. Until we meet again, I love you and miss you to the Heavens and back.

“ I was not part of the immediate family; I was family adjacent. I am the brother of Virginia's daughter-in-law. But that did not matter, just that association led Virginia to open her arms and heart and offer me a job when I was in college. I had the opportunity to ride back from holidays with Virginia and share stories, thoughts, and introspections on a four plus hour trip from Dallas. I, like many others found myself drawn to her. She was loving, non-judgmental, and truly interested in everyone she interacted with. There is a small hole in my heart that she created when she left this mortal coil. But I am content in the knowledge that she is with our lord and Saviour in heaven. I will see you again one day my friend, and we will have many more spirited conversations.

“ I am one of the lucky ones to be called Nana's granddaughters. I can still smell the fresh coffee and crispy bacon, while 90s country plays in her giant stereo system after waking up from a Nana sleepover. She'd dote on me and make me my own special breakfast. I cherish those moments when Nana saw me, for who I was and who I grew in to be. She taught me about being proud of who I was. Making sure I looked my best, even add a little sparkle of jewelry to make an outfit. Her love was deep, her cooking soul healing and her wisdom was always exactly what I needed when I needed it. When I lost my son, she was the first person I could think of to call, to help me navigate my grief. She told me he was with the Lord and there's not better place for him to be. It brings me peace knowing Nana is with the Lord. Reunited with her son and finally meeting my boy, Cash. You will be so missed but I know you will listen when I pray. Love you.

“ I had a wonderful mother-in-law for 44 years! Virginia was my mentor. She showed me the fine art of being a housewife and mother. Early on, she let me know that all I had to do was ask for advice, and she'd be happy to tell me. I took her up on it many times. Virginia became my friend. We could talk for hours and I soon found that I had way more in common with her than I could have imagined. I enjoyed being with her! When I heard someone telling Mother-In-Law jokes, I always said “I don't get it, MY mother-in-law is the best!” Virginia came to be more like a mother to me over the years. When my own mother recently passed away, I remember thinking that I still had Virginia and was so appreciative. I will miss her more than I can express, but I will try to emulate all the ways she showed love to her family and be as strong as she was throughout her life.

Virginia was a terrific mother and I'm sure her kids had many envious friends! She loved her kids with all her heart, a heart that was nearly shattered at the loss of her youngest son, Todd. She was a devoted mother, Nana and great Nana. She cared for everyone at some point in their lives and was a constant source of devotion that only she could give, Nana style! She made us all feel so special

Virginia was very strong willed and independent. Words used to describe her at her memory care facility were feisty, spitfire and sassy. These traits made her the one who would step up and take care of family when she was still just a girl herself. It was very difficult for her to let go of her independence and let others do for her. She was a faithful servant to the Lord and lived as a Christian. I know she is with her beloved son and everyone who has passed before her. We'll all be lucky to have her in heaven waiting for us when our time comes. Rest in peace to our beloved Mother, Nana and friend. She leaves us in grief, but also in profound thankfulness that we were blessed to have her in our lives.
