“ I have known Russ and Tammy for almost 10-years, which both have had significant influences on my life. Tammy was a very loving person that always expressed her love for her entire family. She had an extraordinary passion for her horses where she loved taking trail rides and even travel with the horses to explore trails beyond the norm. Even though she still had a little Minnesotan accent, she was a true Texan by heart. Tammy was a very strong-willed woman where she inherited the nickname "Sarge" for obvious reasons. I believe Russ was afraid of her and he is one of the toughest guys I have ever known. You could always joke with her but be prepared for the backlash that may be returned. Behind the Sarge persona was a very loving person that was always the perfect host when visiting her home. I never could figure out why she was always trying to give away her dogs to me, but I have concluded that it was part of her generous personality especially when they were perfectly good well-disciplined dogs that had been trained by the Sarge. Tammy, I know that you will be missed by many that you have influenced their lives in some way or another. I will especially miss the Sarge, fun loving, animal loving, generous person that you were known as to me, but you will always be in my memories. Truly great friends are hard to find, difficult to leave, and impossible to forget.

God Bless You
Your Friend
David
